A 50-mile an hour wind played high jinx in and about Circleville
Sunday night and left in its wake uprooted trees and downed telephone poles.

The Citizens Telephone Company
reported many poles were brought down as falling trees hit the wire
lines. Although the damage extended in all directions from Circleville, there was very little disruption of service. Repairs are well under way with men of the other nearby exchanges drafted for the work.

Narrowly missing the front windows, the large sign of the Leach
Motor Car Company, 122 East Franklin Street, crashed to the street pulling down the 14-foot
cast iron pole on which it was mounted.

Many Cars in Ditches
James Lathams of the Auto Transit Company who delivered a load of Chevrolets from Cincinnati,
said that he saw many cars in the ditches along the highway. Circleville garages, however, knew of no automobile accidents that occurred during the storm.

The lines of the Southern Ohio
Electric Company suffered no damage, Charles T. Gilmore, Circleville manager, said.

The street light circuit was out
in Circleville for 90 minutes Sunday evening during the high wind.
Reports from various rural districts indicated that lights and telephone service suffered.

The temperature during the week end varied by about 20 degrees, the high Sunday being 45
and the low Monday 25. Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, weather observer, recorded .85 of an inch of rain from Saturday until Sunday evening.

Service department employees
were busy Monday sweeping up sand and gravel that had been used to combat ice during the last three weeks. The heavy rain cleared away nearly all the ice.

Observers said that the snow,

STEPHEN YOUNG RACES FOR JOB IN CONGRESS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15 — Stephen
M. Young, former congressman-
at-large, today announced he will again be a candidate for that office in the Democratic primary.
Young called himself a New Deal Democrat in announcing his campaign and added that "President Roosevelt has made mistakes, but he did not make the mistake of doing nothing when men and women were jobless and little children were hungry."

HEDGES LOSES FEDORA IN SUNDAY BLACKOUT

Londoners may have their troubles with blackouts, but they have nothing on B. T. Hedges, Circleville justice of the peace.
It wasn't an air raid that caused the blackout, but the high wind
that blew the street light circuit
at Pickaway and Main Streets.

The wind did a bit of blowing
on its own and lifted Mr. Hedges' hat and carried it off. In the darkness the search for the hat
was futile.

Today Mr. Hedges is advertising for its return and feels confident that the light of day
will reveal its resting place.

RUSSIANS WARN SCANDINAVIANS

Sweden And Norway Told
To Quit Helping Finns;
Notes Revealed

MOSCOW, Jan. 15—Waving her
cudgels at Sweden and Norway,
"undesirable consequences" if
those two Scandinavian nations
persist in aiding Finland in her war against the U. S. S. R.

The Moscow government revealed that formal Soviet protests against their aid to Finland had been sent to Sweden and Norway and that the nature of their replies had caused "danger" to arise.

Carrying the war of words a step further, Russia charged semi-officially that Sweden and Norway had not offered sufficient resistance to alleged attempts by Western Powers—meaning Britain and France, although they were not named—to "inveigle Sweden
and Norway into war against the Soviet."

The diplomatic exchanges were made public by the Tass (Russian)

LONDON—Amid rising tension
caused by reports of an imminent
German drive against Belgium
and the Netherlands, the British government moved rapidly today
to throw its weight into
the scales on behalf of the low countries. An official announcement
by the war office that all leaves
for officers and soldiers of the British Expeditionary Force in France were "temporarily suspended" was regarded as Britain's reply to the latest German move
in a new "white war of nerves."

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands—With the Netherlands and Belgium on a war footing and ready to resist any German invasion should the blow come, qualified Dutch sources expressed belief today that the storm of apprehension is blowing over as far as the low countries are concerned.

BLACKBURN LIFTS LAST OF COUNTY QUARANTINES

The last of Pickaway County's quarantines was lifted early Monday leaving the county free of isolated cases.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway
County health commissioner, lifted
the scarlet fever quarantine at the home of Kermit Thomas
whose daughter Hazel was confined. Mr. Thomas' home is in Wayne Township.

The diphtheria quarantine
placed in Darby Township at the home of Jay Phillips isolating his two children, Virginia and Thomas, was lifted Saturday.

Dr. Blackburn expressed the wish that no new quarantines
would have to be placed in the near future.

Is Wheeler Lewis Candidate?

Senator Wheeler

John L. Lewis

OFFICIAL Washington buzzes with speculation because John L.
Lewis has invited Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana to speak at the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the United Mine Workers of America in Columbus, O., January 23. Many observers believe that the gesture indicates Lewis will favor Wheeler as a candidate for the presidency this year and that Lewis may have definite information President Roosevelt whom the CIO chief once called "the greatest humanitarian of our time" will not seek a third term.

WAR OF NERVES 12 KNOWN DEAD BLAME NOT ON IN HEAVY OHIO NAZIS, THEY SAY SUNDAY TRAFFIC

BERLIN, Jan. 15 — Nazi Germany today denied responsibility
for the week end wave of alarm-
ist rumors in Europe, ascribing
them to Franco-British war-mongering, but again warned Belgium
and Holland to safeguard their neutrality at all costs.

The Reich is "alert and watchful," a spokesman declared, and is fully alive to the fact that Britain and France are carrying on a
"dangerous flirtation" with the low countries.

In particular, Germany is watching for any sign of Belgo-Dutch "connivance" with the Allies—a contingency which Berlin
has frequently warned Belgium
and Holland to avoid.

In the absence of any concrete indications in Germany that any major move affecting neutral nations is imminent, authentic quarters clearly indicated their displeasure over alarmist reports
and actions emanating from the Netherlands and Belgium.

Official spokesmen strongly

GUARD CUTTER SPEEDS TO AID SEVEN ON BARGE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15—The coast guard cutter Tampa, answering SOS signals, today sped to the rescue of seven men aboard
the drifting barge Detonox, 100 miles west of Egmont Key, Florida.

The Tampa, in a radio message
to the New Orleans coast guard
headquarters, reported the tug Bafshe wireless that the Detonox,
one of two barges in tow,
had broken loose and was drifting
in a south southeast direction. Because of heavy seas and high winds
the tug was unable to rescue the men on board or make contact with the barge.

The Tampa advised it should reach the barge about 3 p. m.

ROBBERY SUSPECT FACES RETURN TO OHIO TOWN

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Jan. 15—
J. Edward Gordon, 24, who was arrested during an investigation
of a holdup here, was to be taken to Greenville, Ohio, today or Tuesday to face a robbery charge
there, police said today.

The owner of a store in Greenville and a customer who came to Noblesville allegedly identified Gordon and two others as persons who robbed them. The other bandits were Lawrence Handy and Clinton Miller. All three are of Hagerstown, Ind.

EUROPEANS GIRD FOR ACTION IN NEW NERVE WAR

Rumors Spread That Nazis
Intend To Attack French
Lines Through Belgium

BRITISH CANCEL LEAVES

Netherland Nations Guard
Frontiers Against Any Attempt At Raid

By International News Service

The technique of strife that flourished in Europe before the guns began roaring—the "war of nerves"—was revived in full force
today with reports and rumors
that Germany is about to strike
at France and the Maginot Line
through Holland and Belgium.

These rumors began as a whisper but mounted to virtual clarion
calls from the house-tops of all European chancelleries, causing Belgium and Holland to revert to wartime basis, ready for anything,
while Great Britain furnished
what was diplomatically described as a gesture of "strategic sympathy."

This phrase—incidentally, a new one to Americans—meant that the British government had cancelled
all leaves of officers and men of the British Expeditionary Force in France, an unmistakable indication that Britain will resort to deadlier work than smooth phrase-
making if Germany actually moves
against the low countries.

But behind this, certain authoritative circles in London made no
secret of their belief that the Germans are "bluffing," that the rumors regarding Holland and Belgium
are merely a renewal of the war
of nerves. The London Evening News said that "the situation
shows slight relaxation."

Belgium and Holland, however,
took full precautions. Belgium mustered two additional reserve
classes, bringing the country to the verge of total mobilization and placing about 650,000 men under

400 LOSE LIVES AS FIRE WRECKS JAPANESE AREA

TOKYO, Jan. 15—At least 400
persons were estimated to have perished today at Shizuoka, in a fire, the largest in the city's history, which brought untold destruction, leveling some 3,000 houses
and stores.

The Shizuoka railway station
was wiped out and the main-line
railway and all communications
were cut off.

Efforts to check spread of the flames appeared futile and the fire spread through the city hours
after it first broke out.

Damage, if any, suffered by seven American and British firms
with property at Shizuoka, including the M. J. B. concern of San Francisco, Socony-Vacuum and National Cash Register, could not be established immediately. Likewise the fate of American tea firm properties, including those of the Hillier Brothers firm of Chicago,
was not known.

Shizuoka is about 100 miles
southwest of Tokyo.

CLAYPOOL SAYS F. D. R. TO RUN AND BE ELECTED

CHILLICOTHE, Jan. 15—That precedent setting, tradition smashing President Franklin D. Roosevelt would run for a third term
and be elected was the prediction
of Congressman Harold K. Claypool of the Eleventh District visiting here today.

"There will be a rush of candidates for the post" Claypool said.
"Mr. Roosevelt will be drafted into service again. No one has a ghost of a chance to beat him."

SOVIET CENTERING PLANE ATTACKS ON FINN PORTS, RAILS

HELSINKI, Jan. 15—Soviet bombing planes raided Finland again today after a week end of aerial activities apparently resigned to wreck the country's seaports.

Many bombs were dropped in the new attacks, but owing to disrupted telephone and telegraph communications it was impossible to obtain any estimate of casualties or damages.

Today's raids were directed against seaports, railway junctions and stations with the apparent aim of demoralizing Finland's transportation system.

The aerial "blitzkrieg" carried out over Saturday and Sunday
brought terror to scores of Finnish cities and towns and wrecked
the evacuated residence of United States Minister H. F. Arthur
Schoenfeld, outside Helsinki.

Latest reports from southern Finland indicated that damage caused by Red air raids over the week end was more serious than first estimated. Ninety bombs were dropped on the Bothnian
bay port of Vasa alone.

Fire caused by incendiary
bombs still raged this afternoon
in southern Finland.

At the same time, military advices to the capital stated that large numbers of Russian reinforcements were arriving at various fronts in preparation for a new Red army offensive and that large numbers of Soviet troops
had been dropped on the Carelian Isthmus behind the Finnish lines
by parachute from huge Soviet bombers.

NAVY MOVES TO GUARD NATION'S EASTERN COAST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—A major enlargement of American naval forces in the Atlantic is contemplated in confidential navy department defense plans, it was learned today.

These plans envisage the addition of a large number of cruisers,
destroyers and lesser warcraft to the present small-sized Atlantic naval squadron.

Building up the naval forces in the Atlantic will require several years and the expansion of this eastern fleet will be confined to vessels below the battleship category.

The ships to be assigned to service off the East Coast principally will be over-age vessels eventually withdrawn from the main battle-fleet in the Pacific. There will be no weakening of the West Coast
fleet through these withdrawals
since virtually all new warship tonnage is placed into service in the Pacific.

Although the navy relies largely on British sea power to guard
the Atlantic, naval strategists feel that the American defense forces
in the east should be strengthened
in the light of world conditions.

TEST OF UNCLE SAM'S TAX LAW HIT BY JUDGES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—The Supreme Court today denied a petition for review which, for the first time, brought to the court a constitutional question involving the undistributed surplus tax law enacted by congress in 1936.

Crane - Johnson company, a North Dakota corporation, appealed the case.

It reported net income in 1936 of $13,450 but said that it had a capital deficit of $21,251, and was prohibited by law from paying out dividends so long as it had a deficit.

Therefore, it contended, it was free from the 7 to 27 percent un-distributed profits tax. The government, however, levied a surplus tax of $1,771.

SOLONS MARKED TO DIE

18 New Yorkers Nabbed By Federal Men; Arsenal
Found In Home

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—

Federal agents today delved
into the inner workings of a secret group of 18 members of the Christian Front organization accused by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men,
of attempting to overthrow
the United States government by means of a fantastically grandiose reign of violence.

To be set in motion late in January, their almost unbelievable plot, according to Hoover, included the assassination of 14 congressmen, a reign of terrorism against the Jews, and seizure or bombing of the Brooklyn and Philadelphia navy yards,
West Point Military Academy and Annapolis Naval Academy, federal reserve banks, mints, National Guard armories, arsenals, customs houses and utility plants.

To accomplish this plot, the 18
suspects had assembled a considerable arsenal, believed mostly stolen from armories of the National Guard of which six were members, one a captain. Their arsenal, according to Hoover, included 12 Springfield 30.06 rifles,
four .22 rifles, one .45 Springfield

F. H. LaGuardia got a laugh

tion. "I don't think the United States government is in much rifle, 15 bombs, 18 cans of cordite,

an explosive, 3,500 rounds of ammunition and a small assortment of other arms.

Financial Aid Studied

Federal agents were anxious to learn what if any financial support the 18 men had managed to attract and what if any connections they had with other organizations.

The Christian Front, of which Hoover said they were members,
has been accused of anti-Semitic tendencies and of sympathy towards the aims of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin.

Father Coughlin charged the Christian Front members arrested
by Hoover were "a group of Bund-ists, allied with Communists" who

EUROPEANS GIRD FOR ACTION IN NEW NERVE WAR

Rumors Spread That Nazis Intend To Attack French Lines Through Belgium

Belgium Not Alarmed

At the same time, little Belgium warned that she is "armed and ready"—but not alarmed.

Taking similar measures, the Netherlands brought all her military stations to full war-time strength and all army leaves were cancelled. The government also issued an official denial of a German charge that a Dutch plane had flown over Germany at Nordhorn.

Experts, meanwhile, pointed out that the moment from the standpoint of weather, was unfavorable for a German attack. Heavy fogs shrouded the countryside and a thaw made large-scale transports over roads dangerous.

While this situation prevailed in the West and both France and Germany announced that the Western Front was quiet, Soviet Russia began a private war of nerves against Sweden and Norway, warning that their aid to Finland was dangerous and that Moscow was dissatisfied with Swedish and Norwegian replies to Russian representations on this subject.

It was revealed that Sweden and Norway denied most of the Soviet accusations and contended their conduct with regard to Finland was fully in accordance with international law.

For the moment, however, the Russian ire against Stockholm and Oslo went no further than threats of "undesirable consequences" and "dire effects."

Swedish officials had—for the time being—the last word when they remarked that Russia had violated diplomatic custom by making public the text of the Soviet note without notifying Sweden. Further Swedish comments are anticipated today or tomorrow.

In Finland the chief activity took place in the air. Soviet planes dropped hundreds of bombs on Finnish cities and towns, twice attacking Helsinki and wrecking the evacuated residence of the American minister, H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld.

Civilians Strated

Latest reports said bombs transformed scores of towns into fiery furnaces and that Russian airmen machine-gunned fleeing civilians. Loss of life was reported to have been considerable.

In the United States the European war had a sinister echo as federal agents probed the secrets of 18 "Christian Front" members who were arrested on charges of attempting to overthrow the American government, assassinate congressmen, commit other acts of violence and establish a dictatorship. At the same time the first contingent of survivors of the scuttled German liner Columbus sped toward the Pacific coast on the first leg of their journey to the Reich.

Unconfirmed reports said one of their number had been seized by G-men as a spy suspect.

The accident occurred near a point where Henry Anderson, 54, and his nephew, Lawrence Johnson, 17, were killed last night when their auto was hit by a New York Central passenger train.

Summer cottages at North Shores, north of Toledo on Lake Erie, were threatened with destruction when the wind piled up ice 40 feet high. Electric wires were snapped, disrupting power service in several sections of Toledo.

Lucas County sheriff's deputies considered dynamiting the ice to save several of the cottages.

The high wind forced cancellation of most flights from Cleveland airport. Trees, utility poles and signboards were felled in Cleveland as the gale whipped up heavy rain and snow.

Downtown signs were wrecked in Salem and windows blown in. The area surrounding Salem reported heavy property damage.

depreated the Dutch ambassador's recent consultation with Premier Eduard Daladier in Paris and condemned Dutch and Belgian military precautionary measures—all looked on here as moves incompatible with strict neutrality.

The whole week end campaign of nerves was officially branded as "made in London and Paris in an endeavor to provoke a new situation and spread the war to new fields."

Germany will not allow itself to be provoked by such means, it was said. The main concern of the Reich continues to center on preventing any spread of present hostilities.

ENTRY CHANGING SCHOOL FIGHT STATUS ON FILE

An entry overruling the judgment of the Court of Common Pleas in the Muhlenberg Township and County Board of Education controversy was filed Monday in Common Pleas Court. It has been indicated that the decree of the Appeals Court judges will be appealed by the county board to the State Supreme Court.

The judges held that transfer of Muhlenberg High School territory to Monroe Township was not valid.

CHRISTIAN FRONT SOCIETY NAMED AS TERRORISTS

Bombings, Assassination Of Congressmen Halted By Arrests, Hoover Says

newspapers to the FBI offices in New York late Sunday afternoon and gave out terse details of the arrests. He identified the leaders as William C. Bishop, 39, believed to have been born in Vienna and three times deported each by Great Britain and Belgium, and John F. Cassidy, a clerk for the Brooklyn Edison company, a large utility company, and head of the Christian Front in Brooklyn.

Guard Captain Named

Another of the suspects, Hoover said, was John T. Prout, 29, a telegraph company clerk and captain in the National Guard. Also included were army and naval reservists.

This group, which called itself "The Sports Club" and "The Country Gentlemen," according to Hoover, had, he asserted, established a camp at Narrowsburg, N. Y., where they engaged in military practice. G-men, secreted in the vicinity, succeeded in taking motion pictures of some of their maneuvers by using long-range lenses, Hoover revealed.

"They specialized in training men for the proposed revolution and in stealing arms from government defense forces," Hoover charged.

The families of many of those arrested seemed to be dazed and surprised by the sudden arrests. As with one voice, those who spoke with newspapermen disclaimed the aims attributed to the suspects by the head G-man.

The proposed revolution, Hoover charged, was to be touched off some time after January 20 with the simultaneous bombings of the Jewish Daily Forward, a newspaper; with The Daily Worker, a Communist newspaper; the Brooklyn headquarters of the American League for Peace and Democracy, and the Cameo Theatre which has been exhibiting Russian films.

Hoover declined to reveal the names of the 14 congressmen on the death list but said they were marked for extinction presumably for voting to lift the arms embargo in his neutrality bill.

Raids Bring Arrests

The investigation began last August, Hoover said, and since that time the men had been under constant surveillance. They were arrested in simultaneous raids on their homes Saturday night.

"The club planned among its early acts of terrorism, to begin some time after January 20, to bring about complete eradication of all Jews, seize all railroads, public utilities, power and water plants and all other forms of communication and transportation," Hoover said.

The arsenal, Hoover said, was found in the basement of a house occupied by one of the prisoners, John A. Viebrock, 36, an elevator mechanic.

After the first wave of bombings, the suspects planned to seize arsenals, armories and the military academies as well as the shipyards to obtain arms, Hoover charged. They apparently believed they would find considerable stores of gold in the customs houses and postoffices where actually none or little is kept, Hoover indicated.

The 18 suspects will be charged with sedition, an accusation that carries fines of $5,000 each or six years in prison, or both.

They were charged with conspiring to "overthrow and destroy the government of the United States, to oppose by force of arms the authority of the United States government, and to seize and take possession of the property of the United States."

In addition to Bishop, Cassidy, Prout and Viebrock, the others arrested were identified by Hoover as:

Michael J. Blerne, 32, a native of Ireland, corporal in the New York National Guard and telephone company linesman.

Macklin Boettger, 32, a native of Pittsburgh, dish-washing machine salesman and National Guard member for 12 years.

Andrew Buckley, 34, native of Ireland, tailor and sergeant and qualified gunner in National Guard infantry.

William H. Bushnell, Jr., 18, unemployed.

Claus Gunther Ernecke, 36, born in Berlin, Germany, correspondence school salesman, member of the German-American Bund and served one enlistment in National Guard.

John F. Cook, 19, member U. S. Marine Corps reserve.

news agency, which commented that the replies from Stockholm and Oslo were not satisfactory to Moscow.

In the protests, delivered January 5, Russia accused the two small nations of fomenting an "anti-Soviet campaign" and permitting volunteers and arms for Finland to go from or pass through their territories. The notes threatened "undesirable consequences" unless both nations called an immediate halt to these activities.

Sweden and Norway replied that volunteers aiding the Finns were not members of their armies and could not legally be restrained. Norway said she was not permitting transit of arms through her territory but Sweden made no declaration on that particular point.

The Tass bulletin commented: "The replies from Norway, and especially from Sweden, cannot be considered satisfactory."

"Sweden and Norway do not deny all the facts cited in the Soviet representations. They, therefore, prove their violation of their neutrality policy."

"Such an attitude on the part of Norway and Sweden contains danger."

"It proves that the governments of Sweden and Norway are not exerting sufficient resistance against the pressure and influence of certain powers which are endeavoring to inveigle Sweden and Norway into a war against the Soviet."

Authoritative sources indicated the two replies, while denying most of the Russian charges, contended both Sweden and Norway "behaved in full accordance with international law" and the covenant of the League of Nations, which threw out Russia and called for aid to Finland.

RELIEF OFFICE TO AID FAMILIES OF WPA MEN

D. H. Marcy, relief administrator, announced Monday that he had made arrangements for a distribution of surplus commodities to families of WPA workers who were suffering because of lack of work, weather conditions being blamed. The distribution of four different commodities will be conducted Wednesday from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the South Pickaway Street distribution station.

Mr. Marcy said that WPA families and families of WPA workers who have recently been cut off the lists will receive the commodities. Families of women on the sewing project will not be included because the weather has not bothered their work.

Cassidy Saluted

Cassidy was described by Hoover as a forceful speaker who was given the title of "Fuhrer" of the group along with the Nazi salute by his followers.

"Federal agents took motion pictures at long range of members of the group being instructed in the handling of guns at Narrowsburg and going through their military maneuvers," Hoover revealed.

"The members were being trained also in the handling of bombs. The groups was to have assembled at Narrowsburg on January 27. Some of their guns have a range of three miles."

LANDIS DECREE WRECKS TIGER CHAIN SYSTEM

CHICAGO, Jan. 15—The baseball world was rocked today by a series of sweeping rulings by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis who, after a nine-month investigation, declared 92 players free agents, fined two major league clubs, and ordered payments of approximately $50,000 to 15 players.

In general, the baseball czar's action was taken to punish juggling of players' contracts, common control of player dealings of two clubs in the same league, covering up of players, and concealment of player transactions.

Hardest hit were the Detroit Tigers, whose intricate farm system has in effect wrecked by the large scale releasing of players. Five of the players declared free agents were on the 1939 Detroit roster; the rest were minor leaguers ranging all the way down the list to class D teams.

The five Tigers released were Benny McCoy, second baseman, Outfielder Roy Cullenbine, Pitcher Paul Trout, and Rookie Hurlers Lloyd Dietz and Steve Rachunok. McCoy's release was expected to create a wide scramble for his services, he was rated as worth at least $40,000 in the open market.

The Chicago Cubs were fined $1,000 because a scout approached McCoy and Cullenbine before their status had been made clear by Landis. The St. Louis Browns were fined $500 for approaching McCoy. The Cubs were forbidden to sign either of the two, and the Browns cannot sign McCoy.

Temperature Falls Throughout Ohio

By International News Service

More winter weather, sweeping into Ohio from the Northeast, faced the state today as temperatures steadily dropped toward the low twenties.

Accompanied by snow flurries and a gusty wind that at times reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour, the new onslaught of frigid weather ended a two-day period of mild temperatures and a rain that cleared away most of the heavy snowfall of the last week.

The forecast for today was for snow flurries and colder, followed by clearing skies in the southern portion of the state. Tuesday was to be generally fair and colder, with continued snow flurries.

With the thermometer falling steadily, temperatures recorded early today included 25 at Columbus, 27 at Cleveland, 26 at Cincinnati and Toledo, 22 at Dayton, 27 at Portsmouth and Akron, and 28 at Cambridge.

Considerable wind damage was reported in the central portion of the state. The snow was whipped into drifts by the wintry blasts, but the fall was too light to block any roads. However, the highway patrol reported some roads in Washington and Guernsey counties covered by high water.

TROOPER FOUND NOT GUILTY IN DEATH OF GIRL

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 15—Acquitted of the murder of 14-year-old Joan Stevens by a jury that reached its verdict late Sunday afternoon, Corp. Benjamin Franklin of the Pennsylvania state police today still faced prosecution on an involuntary manslaughter charge in the same case.

District Attorney Albert Heimbach said he had not yet determined whether this lesser charge would be pressed in view of the not guilty verdict on the second degree murder and manslaughter indictments.

The jury began its deliberations 8:05 Saturday night and returned to the courtroom at 4:50 Sunday afternoon with the verdict. The huge bell atop the courthouse was tolled 15 times to announce to the townspeople that a verdict was reached.

Franklin contended he shot the girl in self defense when she threatened him with what he believed was a gun while he and another trooper were questioning her in their car concerning advance information on bank robberies which she claimed to have. Joan's weapon proved to be a toy pistol.

THREE CHOICES OF F. D. R. WIN SENATE'S O K E H

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—With less than a half hour deliberation, the senate judiciary committee today confirmed the nominations of Attorney-General Frank Murphy of the Supreme Court, Solicitor-General Robert Jackson to be Attorney-General, and Federal Judge Francis Biddle of Philadelphia, to be solicitor-general.

Final confirmation of the three appointments by the senate is expected this week.

In taking its unanimous action on Murphy, the committee called the attorney-general before it, not to question him, but to congratulate him, according to members.

OHIO SCHEDULES MIGHTY TEXANS FOR 1940 GAME

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15—That thud you just heard was a faint-hearted Ohio State football fan hitting the floor. For today he got his first glance at the 1940 suicide schedule to end all suicide schedules.

With the announcement that Texas A. & M. probably would fill the open date left by the withdrawal of Chicago from the gridiron sport, the Buckeyes completed a star-studded schedule that tops them all. However, the Texas A. & M. game depends on the Sugar Bowl champs' ability to conform their schedule to the Oct. 5 date.

With not a single soft spot, the schedule as now arranged follows: Sept. 28, Pittsburgh; Oct. 5, Texas A. & M.; Oct. 12, at Northwestern; Oct. 19, Minnesota; Oct. 26, at Cornell; Nov. 2, Indiana; Nov. 16, at Illinois; Nov. 28, Michigan.

The site of the Cornell melee may be changed to Cleveland to insure a better gate.

MUSKIES FACING TEST AGAINST KENT STATERS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15—Defending its lead in the Ohio Conference pennant chase, Muskingum tomorrow night meets its most formidable competition to date—Kent State.

Thus far, the Muskies have zoomed through conference opponents with little or no trouble and become a serious threat to duplicate their football successes.

Bowling Green, one of the leading contenders for the crown remains away from Conference activity this week but beginning next week tackles 10 successive conference games.

Ohio University, by virtue of a victory over Dayton Saturday night, continued in a choice spot in the statewide race. Paced by the sharpshooting Frankie Baumholtz, the Bobcats have won eight out of nine games.

Toledo evened an old score Saturday, upsetting Marshall's 60 to 50, thus atoning for the 50 to 37 setback Marshall inflicted earlier in the week.

Saturday's scores included: Ohio

Wesleyan 54, Case 27; Ohio U. 42, Dayton 34; Ohio State 37, Illinois 31; Oberlin 46, Rochester 28; Wittenberg 53, Kent State 45; Ohio Northern 31, Hiram 30; Toledo 60, Marshall 50; Rio Grande 56, New River State 33; Miami 32, Western Teachers 29; Earlham 39, Wilmington 38; Ashland 37, Youngstown 28.

There are said to be three times as many daily newspapers in Switzerland as in Great Britain.

YOUTH, 24, CITED FOR COAT THEFT, CUTS BROTHERS

James Dowdy, Ashland, Ky., To Face Serious Charges, Police Announce

TWO GIVEN TREATMENT

"Tough Guy" Arrested After Stealing Dean White's Garment Early Sunday

A strapping Ashland, Ky. man who was jailed on a charge of petit larceny was faced Monday with more serious charges after he attacked two fellow prisoners with a razor blade, sending both of them to Berger Hospital for emergency treatment. He is James Dowdy, 24, a well-built man who is twice the size of the youths he slashed.

Dowdy was nabbed by Police Chief W. F. McCrady and Patrolmen Charles Mumaw and George Green, Sunday at 12:45 a. m. shortly after he had stolen the topcoat of Dean White, West Mount Street, from the Hanley Restaurant. He was seen in an uptown street by persons who recognized the coat and was pointed out to the officers who nabbed him.

When White's coat was returned to him he told police that his automobile keys were missing and a search of Dowdy discovered them in his pocket.

In the meantime Everett Murphy, 19, and Orval Murphy, 25, Ironton, O., brothers who had spent the evening with Dowdy told police that they understood that Dowdy had intended to steal White's automobile with the keys. Everett Murphy was already in jail, arrested for intoxication, while his brother was arrested at about the same time as Dowdy. The latter learned that the Murphys had told police that he intended to steal a car.

After he had entered the jail cell he attacked the brothers with the razor blade that searching officers had failed to discover when they booked him on the larceny charge.

Both the brothers were severely cut about the back, numerous stitches being required to close their wounds. After treatment they were returned to the jail. Police indicated that Dowdy's charges may now include cutting with intent to kill in addition to the charge covered by the theft of the coat.

Use of WPA Funds In Athens County Checked

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15—On the eve of his investigation into the Athens County relief crisis, State Welfare Director Charles E. Sherwood intimated today the probe might uncover evidence of irregularities in the use of local sponsorship WPA funds.

Sherwood refused to discuss in detail the report just received from the four auditors he assigned to study the Athens County relief picture. However, he let it be known it contained information concerning alleged irregularities in certain county highway and bridge construction projects.

Detailed findings of the report, he asserted, will not be disclosed until the matter is discussed with Fred C. Shafer, county relief administrator, said the Athens county commissioners.

Dr. Carl W. Watson, state WPA administrator, indirectly admitted the federal government has been conducting a probe of its own. Any action resulting from the government investigation, he said, will follow the recommendation of the investigators.

Action Remains Secret

Sherwood declined to say what action the state would take if the charges are substantiated. It was believed, however, that he would officially advise Governor Bricker of the situation so the chief executive might ask the attorney general to launch a grand jury probe.

Meanwhile, Sherwood's avowed determination to "clean up the mess in Athens County relief" assumed added importance with his declaration that the $30,000 appropriation voted by the county commissioners for January, February and March relief "will not alter my plans to go there and conduct my own investigation."

Sherwood intimated that from 20 to 40 percent of the 6,200 persons receiving relief aid in the county were "chiselers." The county's population is about 45,000.

At least part of the blame lies with the county administration, the director charged, and threatened to set up state administration of relief if the local authorities were unable to carry on properly.

"We're not going to see relief stopped down there," he asserted, "but neither are we going to permit it to be administered in haphazard fashion."

"If they don't straighten things up, we must straighten them up for them."

Lott Bricker, chairman of the Athens County Unemployment Committee, told Sherwood last week that "the doors of the Athens County relief office were double-locked most of the time."

"Many children have no shoes fit to wear in this weather, and many families are without coal," he charged.

That statement and Shafer's announcement that there was a $10,000 deficit in the county relief fund, and that the two-weeks food

A fire of unknown origin destroyed a house car Saturday afternoon belonging to Joseph Pabst and occupied by his brother William and his son. It was located on the South Side just beyond the Pabst saw mill. The fire department responded to call and extinguished the blaze but not until the building was reduced to a charred mass. Water was supplied from a village hydrant some several hundred feet from the fire. At a safe distance we viewed the fire ladders at work and we are crediting them with being real workers. The household goods and wearing apparel belonging to Mr. Pabst who occupied the car were entirely destroyed. No insurance on either car or contents.

It was Friday, not the 13th, but John Sark had forgot about this and fell off a ladder anyway. He was storing away some lumber in the overhead at the garage using a ladder. This went out of balance and John hit the cement floor with a bound, peeling "the bark" here and there and reducing his glasses to a million or so bits. He's going again but not without plenty of limp.

BEVIS TO TAKE O. S. U. OFFICE ON FEBRUARY 1

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15 — Dr. Howard Landis Bevis, 54, newly appointed president of Ohio State University, will receive an annual salary of $15,000, the board of trustees announced today.

At a conference between Bevis and the board, it was also decided that the new president assume office February 1, and will be formally inaugurated a few weeks later.

The action of the board in deciding on the $15,000 figure restored the pay-cut voluntarily accepted by former President George W. Rightmire, who retired at the retirement age of 70 in the summer of 1938. Dr. Rightmire and Dr. William McPherson, acting president since that time, received $10,248.

The university also provides the president with a home on the campus, a car and servants.

The board conferred the title of "president emeritus" on Dr. McPherson in recognition of his services the past 18 months.

No definite date was set for Dr. Bevis' inauguration, but it was to be sometime "before spring," a board spokesman said.

Dr. Bevis, at present a professor of law at Harvard, will be relieved of his duties there as soon as the current semester ends.

MY JOB IS SPEED— BUT MY SMOKE IS SLOW-BURNING CAMELS

THE CENTURY READY TO "HIGHBALL," as they say in railroading! Engineer Walter L. Bronson (above) swings up into the cab of Number 5449, one of the big Hudson type locomotives which flash at 80 miles an hour across the landscape between New York and Chicago in a day-in, day-out epic of modern railroad speed.

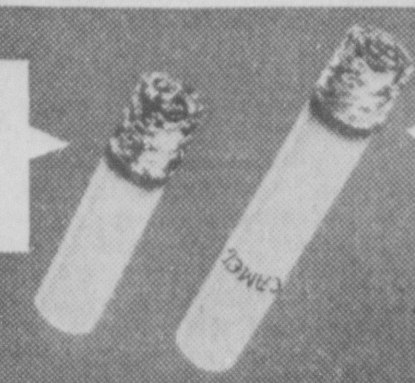

HERE'S EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, AND EXTRA FLAVOR, and here's why: Camels are slower-burning. They have thoroughbred quality through and through. Finer, more expensive tobaccos are used, in the first place. And these choice tobaccos are combined into a matchless blend.

Smoke a Camel. Notice how slowly it burns. That is your clue to true cigarette enjoyment—the "extras" of mildness, coolness, flavor—and —extra smoking in every cigarette. Camels burned 25% slower than any other cigarette in recent tests (full details below). You'll always rejoice over the day you switched to Camels!

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

FAST BURNING —creates hot flat taste in smoke... ruins delicate flavor, aroma...

SLOW BURNING —protects natural qualities that mean mildness, thrilling taste, fragrance... a cooler smoke...

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

PEACE, IT'S WONDERFUL!
THE President's efforts to "mobilize the churches of the world in an international peace front" as a Washington writer expresses it, represents a new form of pacifism which might have considerable effect.

Why should not the forces of religion be enlisted as well as the forces of war? Too often religion has been invoked as an ally by enemies professing the same faith. It is time to rise above the old heathen conception of tribal gods to a conception of the common Father of Mankind, whose desire is peace throughout the earth and cooperation of all branches of the human race.

This is a very high ideal, which many may naturally regard as visionary and quixotic at this time. But if rival and hostile nations cannot be brought together by religious influence, through cooperative efforts of men of good will in many lands, how can it ever be done? And with the growing destructiveness of modern scientific warfare, if such world unity is not accomplished before many more years have passed, it may be too late. A scientific civilization may destroy itself.

Evidently something more than mere science is required. If the religious principles of love, equity, justice and charity cannot be put into general application, what hope is there for the human race?

"Peace, it's wonderful!" The Negro leader whose simple gospel has been regarded with a tolerant smile of amusement by so many of us may be nearer to the heart of the world's present problem than we have realized. Religious faith based on a will to peace may be worth more than armed force or diplomacy.

MUSEUMS IN THE WOODS
THE time has passed when a natural history museum was merely a place to house stuffed beasts, birds and fish, fossils, dinosaur bones, and so on. Such museums today play an active part in civic life and do a great variety of things that interest and educate old and young alike.

For example, the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, in addition to exhibits and lectures within its buildings, has established nature trails and trail-side museums in the parks surrounding the city. Along the trails the interested saunterer not only sees wild flowers and shrubs and trees in their natural setting, but finds labels telling something of their nature and history. Inside the little woodland museums are samples of nuts and berries and different

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON has been the scene in recent days of a number of conventions of scientists of various sorts. They've conducted round tables, forums and miscellaneous gabfests almost without end. They were interesting, too. But did the argue-fiers have any practical idea of the subjects that they all talked about?

Did they concentrate on the specialties that they're variously experts in? Yes, of course.

But they didn't. They all discussed politics of one kind or another—the state of our own union, Pan-Americanism, politico-economics in general, war's causes, Uncle Sam's and the world's future, all that assortment of stuff.

Now, a historian may be entitled to draw conclusions from the past as to what's coming. But is he entitled to an opinion concerning the 1940 presidential election? I'd say that James A. Farley or John D. M. Hamilton would be a better guesser. How competent is an eminent clergyman to make business predictions? What are an astronomer's commercial forecasts worth? If a physician understands germs, does that qualify him to advise us how to vote next November?

Offhand, I'd think not. These birds did it, though. They talked politics and finance, which I'm darned if I think they know a thing about. If I want to get the low-down on 1940 I consult John N. Garner's manager or Paul V. McNutt's, or Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's or Senator Robert A. Taft's. I don't go to the Smithsonian institution.

AND YET!

In the early days of our depression a delegation of Cleveland money moguls visited Washington to find out, if possible, what could be done.

It happened that I had a Cleveland connection which led these callers to ask me to show them around the capital, introducing them to lawmakers they were anxious to talk to. Out of sociability, I did my best.

All but one of the members of this party were very obvious financiers. The exception was Dr. John H. Quayle, a physician of international reputation. He struck me as an odd individual to be included in such a line-up. Yet I couldn't but notice that his associates listened to him most respectfully concerning business subjects that they were supposed to be super-experts on.

BEST BUSINESSMAN

If the chats had related to, let's say, appendicitis or thrombosis or some such thing, I'd have expected them to defer to his superior wisdom. "But what," I asked myself, "is the notion—these prominent bankers and investment sharks taking off their hats to a mere distinguished medico on questions of stocks and bonds?" I queried one of his associates. "Why," said the chap,

"the doc is the best business man in this bunch."

Finally I put it to the "doc" himself. "Isn't that unusual," I inquired, "for a man of science, like yourself, to be such an adept in economic affairs?"

"Perhaps it is," admitted the "doc," "but it isn't inconsistent. You see, as a medical specialist I'm a diagnostician. I observe symptoms and, reasoning beyond them, determine what's the matter with the patient basically. It's perfect training for an economic diagnostician. I note economic symptoms. From them I determine what's the nature of the economic disease. Any good medical diagnostician ought to be able to do the same thing. Doubtless he could. However, not many of us think of it; that's all."

PARTLY WRONG

"Doc" Quayle was wrong in one respect, though.

He said that it hadn't occurred to many purely scientific scientists that they were qualified to be business scientists also. The capital's recent epidemic of round tables, forums, et cetera, has proved that their participants consider themselves competent to diagnose depressions, the war, labor troubles, the 1940 election, any old thing.

I'm not so sure that their diagnoses are accurate, but they're willing to take a chance on 'em. Are they any good?

I'd like to have consulted Dr. Quayle on that point.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,
GROWTH OF U. S. CENTRALIZATION
WASHINGTON—With all the talk of budget pruning, it is interesting to note that two agencies which did not get slashed are the United States Senate and the Executive Offices of the White House. Apparently neither the legislators nor the President relished curtailing their own expense allowances.

Equally interesting is the fact that the Executive Office budget this year has jumped to $3,573,700, which is just a nose from the amount to be spent by the Senate, namely $3,865,624.

Senate moguls cite this with mingled glee and alarm, pointing out that the United States, under Roosevelt, is approaching a dictatorship, and that the expense of running the presidential offices now comes close to the cost of running the entire United States Senate—including the salaries of 96 Senators, plus clerks, mineral water, barbers and railroad travel.

Real fact, however, is that the Executive Office budget was increased this year by the transfer of the Budget Bureau, the National Emergency Council, and other agencies to the White House. This was one result of the government reorganization bill.

Aside from this, however, the Senators are right that the cost of maintaining the Executive Office, taken separately, has increased. In 1939 it was $2,370,877, while in 1940 it will be $2,972,100. This includes the salary of the President, also of Vice President Garner, the salaries of White House clerks, and maintenance of buildings.

The Senate budget, which is given in the most meticulous detail, includes: "For folding speeches and pamphlets $18,000. For packing boxes, $970. Laborer in charge of senate toilet rooms in the old library space, $1,200. Twenty-one pages for the Senate Chamber at the rate of $4 a day each . . ."

NOTE—The Senate budget scheduled for 1941 is about $173,000 greater than for 1940.

Mr. L. W. (Chip) Robert, vivacious secretary of the Democratic National Committee, came back to his apartment in the Mayflower unexpectedly the other afternoon to find his wife, the glamorous Evie, decked out in an apron and mixing cocktails for a bridge party across the hall.

Thousands of people follow these trails through the seasons, finding much to observe and enjoy even in the winter. Along with the facts they gather, they are rewarded also with the benefits of exercise and recreation in the open air and the growing ability to find companionship and peace in nature.

INSECTS and their annoyances do not disappear with the end of summer. A number of domestic insects which are not only annoying, but dangerous, are more in evidence in the winter than in the summer. The bedbug heads the list of these. In the modern home, humiliation and horror follow the discovery of a bedbug, but if the standards of cleanliness are lowered only a very little, these visitors will appear. In hospitals and hotels they are a constant menace.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest, only, and then only through his column.

In order to cope with them it is important to understand the life history. The bedbug is primarily a parasite of man, but it does feed on other warm-blooded animals, such as mice, chickens or birds. Bedbugs are brought into the house either by mice or men, as a general rule. Because their bodies are flat they can hide in microscopic crevices, under loosened wallpaper, in the joints of wooden bedsteads, in folds in mattresses and bedding, and even in clothing.

Eggs Easier to Conceal
The eggs are even more easy to conceal. The eggs are white when first laid and quickly change to yellow. The female produces two or three eggs a day, until she lays about 500. The young reach maturity in about 30 days after being hatched, but if they encounter unfavorable food conditions, this period may be prolonged considerably.

They are usually nocturnal in habit, but they do not necessarily stop their predatory habits in the daytime. They are good stayers and if a house or cottage becomes infested, it is just too bad. They have been known to exist a year without food.

The bedbug does not bite, but saws his way through your skin with an extremely efficient lower jaw. After he is through the skin, he injects a secretion into the wound which prevents the blood from clotting and then he sucks. Some people do not react to the bedbug bite; to others it is very irritating.

Fumigation by Sulphur
To get rid of bedbugs fumigation by sulphur is the most practical way. It destroys the eggs and reaches all hiding places. Before and after fumigation the walls and ceilings should be repaired so that no cracks appear. Gasoline and kerosene are efficient in cleaning beds.

Another winter insect is the cockroach. It may become a menace to health by crawling over food and contaminating it. Practically everything is food to the cockroach, although they prefer that which is found around kitchens. They can be destroyed with a cheap white powder known as "sodium fluoride" which is harmless to man and animals. This is deadly to insects by contact and by ingestion.

Fleas and lice are also winter visitors. The rules that apply to bedbugs apply to fleas, in that any lowering of the standards of household cleanliness invites them. They are usually transmitted from person to person, children being especially liable to infestation by the head louse through the indiscriminate wearing of other children's caps.

When in the scalp, lice can be destroyed by a shampoo of equal parts of kerosene and vinegar. The solution may be left on for half an hour, the head being wrapped in a towel.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by request. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SYNOPSIS
THE CHARACTERS:
ROMANY HALLE, who wants to be a radio star.
CHOLLY O'NEIL, her pal, who plays in a music store.
BRENT NELSON, successful young announcer.
YESTERDAY: The girls move into the luxurious apartment of Romany's wealthy aunt, who is abroad.

CHAPTER THREE
TERRY'S BOOMING voice shook the apartment when Romany opened the door.

"Well, if it isn't Gorgeous, the glamor gal of old Indiana U herself!" Terry grabbed her in a strangling hug. "Give the old song plucker a kiss! It won't hurt you and it'll do him SO much good."

"You haven't improved," Romany laughed, pulling away to give her hand to Baxter Tree. "Subdue him, Cholly, before we get dispossessed."

Terry bounded toward Cholly and picked her up in his arms, planting a resounding kiss on her little mouth.

"I remembered to ask you to marry me today, Macusha?" Cholly was relieved that his breath was free from the fumes of the Beer Barrel, his favorite haunt. He didn't give her a chance to answer him. Sitting her down in a chair, he turned, grinning, to Baxter.

"Didn't I tell you, Bax, the little Halle is the glamor gal of old Indiana? You two were just made for each other, I'm thinkin'. With your beauty, Gorgeous, and his brains, nothing could stop you. You write the shows, Bax. Gorgeous'll star in 'em. I'll sing your theme song in my never-to-be-forgotten Irish tenor. The future Mrs. O'Rourke here will play the accompaniment!"

"Dry up, and give someone else a break," Cholly broke in, "now that everybody's future is settled." Bax, who hadn't had a chance to speak, sat down on the couch beside Romany.

"Didn't you have a part in the junior play last spring?"

"A bit," Romany smiled. She was a vision in Aunt Cissie's dotted swiss. "About three sides."

"I remembered you by your eye," the writer noted.

"Didn't I tell you!" Cholly howled. "I told Romany you'd remember the girl with the gray-green eyes."

"You were quite famous for them around our digs," Baxter teased. "I don't think anyone ever bothered calling you by name. You were just the Girl With the Byes."

"That's flatterin'," Romany laughed a little self-consciously. "Tree's own kind brown eyes twinkled behind his horn rims."

"Oh, certainly," He offered her a cigarette. "Otherwise I shouldn't have mentioned it."

"Amazing!" Terry sat back, lighting his pipe. "The technique of the guy! Look at all the noise I've got to make to get anywhere with a gal. While that damn continuity writer sits dishing up lines from his new show and you two dames are eating it up like cream. Well, darlin', Terry grinned at Cholly, "I remember you as the wench with the pug nose."

"I'll kill you," Cholly threatened to throw a little metal ash tray at his head.

Terry jumped up. "Time's a wastin'! Let's go places. I've a table reserved at the Silver Door. This all calls for a celebration."

Cholly's heart sank. A table at the Silver Door! The evening before, he'd been down to his last dollar, and four days till payday. Surely he hadn't borrowed money again.

The air-cooled Silver Door was ailed. But the party was led to a ring-side table. The fare of it adding to Cholly's bitterness. The money they would spend would mean so much to Mom and the kids. Terry was as expansive as a new millionaire who 'ad just struck oil.

They had a bottle of wine and chicken dinners, dancing between courses. Romany smiled, looking up at Baxter during a lovely waltz.

"Thank heaven you're tall. I've an awful time finding dancing partners with my five feet seven inches."

"I'm six two," Bax said, dancing surprisingly well for a bookworm. "And I was just thinking I seldom see a girl who meets with my approval in height. I usually have to

"Look!" Romany stopped. "Terry is going to sing."

bend over like a weeping willow.

"Tell me about your radio show," Romany said then. "Cholly tells me you've sold several."

"I've sold five half-hour scripts," Bax replied. "But it's been a pretty dull year. Two of my scripts have been broadcast from Hollywood, with movie casts. Of course, I've got a kick out of that."

"That's grand! How about your five-day-a-week show?"

"It's being cut tomorrow. But I'm holding my breath."

"Cut?" Romany lifted an inquiring eyebrow.

"Oh, I forget you're new to the business. That means a record is to be made tomorrow. It'll be cast and put on wax for a sponsor to hear. At least I hope a sponsor will hear it. The title is 'Paradise Is Here.' Like it?"

"Intriguing," Romany smiled. "Do I play the lead?"

"Oh, but surely," grinned Bax. "You'll probably be a full fledged leading woman by the time it goes on the air. This is a crazy business."

"I've heard that several times today."

"You'll find out," Bax sighed. "I still can't believe the Byrd-Cromwell agency won't burn down tomorrow before 'Paradise' is cut."

"Look!" Romany stopped. "Terry is going to sing."

The orchestra leader motioned for the musical signature and the band stopped playing. When the dancers had returned to their tables, Mack McDermott, master of ceremonies, held up his hand for quiet.

"Folks," he beamed, "we've a little extra special attraction for you this evening. An old friend of mine, and yours, has dropped in and kindly consented to sing for us. Folks, I give you that famous football streak of lightning from Indiana university, Big Terry O'Rourke."

The Silver Door shook with cheers. In spite of her heavy heart, Cholly swelled with pride. Was there ever anyone more handsome than Terry, standing there in the spotlight with his upraised hand and his shining devil-may-care smile?

Terry sang two new songs, "Smilin' in a Rain Barrel" and "So It Wasn't Love After All."

His rich Irish tenor was entirely out of keeping with his big frame. By all rights he should have been a roaring bass. But when Terry O'Rourke sang, even men who swore they despised tenors paused and listened and wanted him to sing again. Women wept and wanted him to hold them in his arms. Even Cholly had almost forgotten how angry she was with him when the roar of applause had subsided and the crowd reluctantly let him go back to his table.

"Oh, Terry," Romany's eyes were misty. "You sing like an angel."

"You shouldn't be plugging songs," Bax agreed. "You should be way up in the money. It's a waste of time, and talent."

"He will be way up at the top some day," Cholly reached over and touched his cheek. "Because he's going to work hard and climb there."

"For you, Macusha," Terry leaned toward her, his eyes deep with longing. "I'd crawl up there on broken glass."

Then, flushed with success and the applause that still rang in his ears, his mood changed.

"Waiter!" He raised his hand. "Another bottle of wine!"

The light left Cholly's eyes and Romany saw them cloud with disappointment and worry. Baxter saw, too, and tactfully asked Charlotte to dance with him. She got up, glad for an excuse to step into the dim lights and blink away her tears.

Left alone with Terry, Romany had to bite her tongue to keep from telling him that he was a fool.

"I don't believe you approve of me," Terry suggested.

"Don't you?" Romany shrugged. "That's too bad. I would approve of you if you had the horse sense you were born with, Terry O'Rourke. But I don't like to see you break the heart of a girl like Cholly. Anybody but Cholly."

"She's an angel," Terry pushed back his glass of wine. "And I'm not worth one little heartache. She ought to kick me out."

"I think so, too," Romany smiled to take away the sting. "But I wouldn't know why she hasn't because I've never been in love."

"When you do fall in love," Terry predicted, "you'll be just as bad. Or worse."

Romany's answer was interrupted when Cholly and Bax came back to the table.

"How'd you like to come down to the agency and sit around while my records are being made tomorrow?" Bax asked Romany while they were dancing later. "Soak up some atmosphere and sort of learn the ropes. You can watch the auditions and learn how it's done."

Romany accepted the invitation with deep gratitude.

"I don't know much about radio," Baxter then said modestly, "but what I do know I'll be very glad to teach you. Maybe I can help a little with your reading, if you'd like to work on some scripts with me."

Smart for nights in town, grand over southern evening clothes, and even for after-ski clothes, it is a sensation everywhere. Six patch flap pockets decorate the front. The revers are tailored, cuffs plain. Straight in front, the coat swings from under the arm.

Bohemian Spaghetti
Buttered Cabbage
Celery and Apple Sauce
Leftover Cake with Diplomatic Sauce
Coffee or Substitute
LEFTOVER cake may be warmed in the oven like rolls, with the top slightly dampened, or steamed in the double boiler. This sauce with the timely name is nice to serve over it, or over any pudding.

Bohemian Spaghetti — Ingredients: one package spaghetti, one 12-ounce can corned beef or any leftover meat, one chopped onion, one clove garlic, one-fourth pound mushrooms, three tablespoons bacon fat, one can tomato paste, two cups water, one minced green pepper, salt, pepper to taste. Fry onion, garlic, green pepper and mushrooms in bacon fat. Remove garlic and then add corned beef (or other meat), tomato paste, water and seasoning. Heat well and served piping hot.

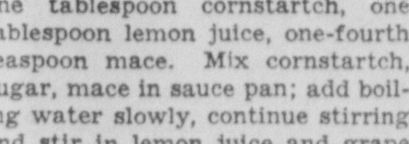

Diplomatic Sauce—Ingredients: one cup sugar, two cups boiling water, one-half cup grape juice, one tablespoon cornstarch, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon mace. Mix cornstarch, sugar, mace in sauce pan; add boiling water slowly, continue stirring and stir in lemon juice and grape juice. Serve on slices of leftover cake or pudding.

Blondie finds a ten spot in the Bumstead house but a canvasser who claims it is pinched when it turns out to be counterfeit. Baby Dumpling solves the mystery when he finds a package of counterfeit money and collects the reward.

STAR THEATRE

Walter Huston, as a hard-boiled newspaperman, will be featured in the Star Theatre's production of "Five Star Final" Wednesday, January 17, 9 p. m., over the CBS network. This play, by Louis Weitzenkorn, who was a newspaperman himself, deals with the vicious practices of the lurid type of tabloid journalism that is buried with the "roaring twenties." Walter Huston, as the tabloid's managing editor, revives an old scandal for circulation purposes. In the course of the pumped-up "expose," members of the vilified family commit suicide, and various tragedies ensue. The editor, in a fit of remorse does what he can to make amends, but cannot repair the damage caused by the stories.

STONE IN VAUDEVILLE

Ezra Stone, starred in "The Aldrich Family" on the NBC-Blue network Tuesdays at 8 p. m., will play two weeks of vaudeville with his radio series. He opens at the Hippodrome in Baltimore February 9 and the State in Hartford February 22. His February 9 broadcast will originate in Baltimore. The booking will cause the young star to withdraw from the cast of his Broadway play "See My Lawyer" for the second time. He recently left the show to go to Hollywood where he made his first starring picture "At Good Old Siwash."

FOSTER HONORED

Andre Kostelanetz pays tribute to Stephen Foster, the famed composer, with a medley of five Foster songs on his "Tune-Up Time" program over CBS Monday at 8 p. m. The salute of Kostelanetz is particularly fitting because he initiated the movement to bring about the issuance of a Stephen Foster memorial stamp next May. Songs he will present include "Old Folks at Home," "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair," "Camptown Races," "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Oh, Susannah." Kostelanetz will also offer the works of two other famous Americans. His 45-piece orchestra will play a digest arrangement of George Gershwin's "American in Paris" and a special version of Victor Herbert's "Indian Summer."

HEIDT PROGRAM

The "Pot o' Gold" Tuesday evening will contain $1,900! During Horace Heidt's broadcast on the NBC-Red network from 8:30 to 9 p. m., a 'phone number will be called and if the 'phone is answered, the party called will receive $1,900 as a gift from Heidt's sponsor. In addition, the program will feature the Heidt band and specialties by tenor Larry Cotton, the Le Ann Sisters, whistler Fred Lowery, trumpeter Bobby Hackett and novachordist Henry Russell. The extra $900 is in the pot because this week's call to Cornelius Dumont of Albany, N. Y., was not answered. Mr. Dumont was presented with $100.

Here's Renaissance Squad

A basketball team that last year won 127 games while losing 15 and swept through a tournament of the greatest teams in the land to win a World's Championship tournament shows in Circleville Wednesday evening. That club is the New York Renaissance quintet, comprised of Negro cagers, who pass a basketball around like a pea and never run up a score on an opponent.
Opponents of the Ren team will be stars picked from the various City League quintets who will play
under the title of the C. A. C. The Ren squad includes the players
shown above, who are, left to right:

CHARLES "TARZAN" COOP-ER: In his stocking feet measures 6 feet 4; he is regarded as one of the best center men in the game
today. He is the pivot of all Renaissance plays and is instrumental in the perfection of the many plays Manager Douglas has mapped out for his quintet. Tarzan is most dangerous under the basket having tremendous strength, opposing players roll off
his back in their wild scramble
to stop him from shooting.

WILLIAM "WEE WILLIE"
SMITH: The outstanding player
of the Rens last season. Wee Willie is a Cleveland boy. During one of the Rens trips to the West Mgr.
Douglas saw this youngster performing in one of the preliminary games and decided to add him to his roster of stars. Willie stands 6 feet 5 and is one of the most spectacular players on the court.
Spectators get their money's worth seeing this youngster in action.

JOHN ISAACS: A graduate of Textile High School, New York
City, was the unanimous choice of all sports writers as All American High School center of Greater
New York during the season of 1936-7. After he graduated Manager Douglas invited him to practice with the Rens and in one workout he was so impressed with the natural ability of the youngster that he was immediately
signed John to a 3 year contract.

WILLIAM "POP" GATES:
Without a doubt one of the greatest court players developed in New York City. Pop made basketball history at Franklin High School.
During his last season which was 1937-8 Gates was captain of his quintet and was unanimously selected as the outstanding player of greater New York High Schools.
Bill can do anything on the floor
and rarely makes mistakes.

ZACK CLAYTON: A product of Philadelphia, Pa., he is another
youngster that the fans go for.
Zack is always digging; the type of player who pleases. A great defensive player and an excellent shot.

PUGGY BELL: Another New York City boy is one of the best shots in the game. The sports writers rate him another Pappy Ricks who for years was the outstanding shot on the Rens. He is tall and rangy, speedy as a gazelle
and an exceptional dribbler and floor man.

Because of the addition the Grove City game, to be played
there, will be staged on February 15, reserves and varsity participating against Pete Trego's squad.

It's not absolutely quiet on the western front. The soldiers' naps are daily disturbed by the tapping
of a typewriter as the latest communique is written.

MILLER FISSELL TO ASSUME DUTIES TUESDAY AS CITY'S TRAFFIC OFFICER

DEPUTY UNDER SHERIFF TAKES OVER NEW POST

Safety Director Instructs Employee To Check Up On Law Violators

RADCLIFF RETURNS, TOO

Reinstated Night Police Patrolman To Resume His Work

Circleville's police department will be augmented Tuesday by the addition of a new traffic officer and the return of a patrolman who has been off duty since December 1, but who has been reinstated effective January 16.

Miller Fissell, a deputy in the office of Sheriff Charles Radcliff since the latter assumed office January 5, 1931, will start to work as the city's new traffic officer, assigned to day duty and expected to patrol the city's busy streets in a car or on a motorcycle whenever the weather permits.

Fissell has been assigned definitely by Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann to enforce the city's traffic laws. His salary will be $110 monthly and he will use his own motorcycle and automobile, the safety director having reached an agreement with him concerning use of the vehicles.

The appointee has made a comprehensive study of the work of a police officer and brings a world of experience with him to the force. He has helped to detect several criminals in the county through scientific methods and his ability as an officer should help the Circleville department in no small degree.

Sheriff Radcliff declared Monday that he lamented losing Fissell from his department and said that he did not intend to immediately appoint his successor. Radcliff pointed out that the increased activity of the State Highway Patrol had reduced the need for a traffic officer in the sheriff's department. Even the other duties of the office have lightened some in the last few months, the sheriff said, only two judgement executions being on hand at the present time. Radcliff said that he has seen times during his tenure that as high as 80 executions awaited action.

Fissell will join Police Chief W. F. McCrady and Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick on duty during the day.

Night Patrolman Carl Radcliff who won reinstatement last week when he appealed his ouster by the safety director and a compromise developed will resume his duties Tuesday night, probably replacing Elmer Merriman, who was named by Herrmann to serve at the same time that Radcliff's ouster was announced.

The regular personnel of the police department now includes Chief McCrady and Patrolmen Fitzpatrick, Alva Shasteen, George Green, Charles Mumaw, Radcliff and Fissell. Extra officers are Merriman, Verne Pontius, Dan Eitel and Turney Ross.

Burglary Of Rural House Cleared Up By Arrests

Arrest of Jack Austin, 19, of Plain City, and of Thaddeus Hunt, 38, of Leatherwood, Ky., early Saturday on charges of automobile theft and attempted armed robbery, had resulted Monday in arrest of a third person and confession of burglary of a Wayne Township property last Monday night. The third person under arrest is Kenneth Hunt, 20, brother of the man arrested earlier.

Austin, nabbed by Patrolman Alva Shasteen when the Plain City youth was driving the stolen Ford V-8 of Otis Buchanan of Columbus, was bound to the grand jury Saturday evening by Mayor W. B. Cady under $1,500 bond on charges of auto theft. He pleaded guilty in preliminary hearing and was remanded to the county jail in default of bond.

No charge has yet been put against Thaddeus Hunt although he, Austin and Kenneth Hunt will be charged Monday with breaking into the tenant house on the property of George Roth, Wayne Township, and stealing some dishes and a mattress belonging to Frank Smallwood, who had removed from the Roth property to the George Barthelmas property. The dishes and mattress were found in a shanty on the William Barthelmas property, Wayne Township, where Austin and the Hunts had been living. The younger Hunt was arrested in the shanty Saturday afternoon.

Authorities said that it is probable that charges of attempted armed robbery will not be pressed against Austin who, it was claimed, tried to hold up Howard Thomas, Wayne Township, shortly after he had stolen Buchanan's car. Thomas told police that he slammed the door in Austin's face when he demanded money. The pistol said by Thomas to have been wielded by Austin has not been located. Thomas identified the youth despite a red handkerchief that he wore over the lower part of his face.

County School Officials Talk Various Problems

Pickaway County school officials met Saturday in the office of G. D. McDowell, superintendent, to hear various reports and transact much county school and athletic business.

After general supplies were distributed, the educators heard a report from R. A. Francis, Scioto superintendent, on the recent Ohio Education Association meeting which he attended as delegate, and heard C. A. Higley of Ashville, basketball tournament manager, discuss plans for the annual competition which will be held this year in the Atlanta, Perry Township, school.

Mr. Higley reported that the county music festival held at his school made a profit of $33.95, total receipts being $56.70.

C. E. Webb, state conservation officer, discussed his plans to visit all schools in an effort to have conservation units formed in the various buildings, game feeder stations to be the ultimate goal of the organizations. His plans were approved by the superintendent.

Among others who appeared before the educators were Lucien Jeness of Chillicothe, National Youth Administration official, who discussed the N. Y. A. program for schools, the matter remaining in the exploratory stage, according to Mr. McDowell. Albert H. Crombie, a lecturer, who discusses problems of modern social relationship was present, too, and several scoons have decided to have him appear before pupils. Others are expected to do likewise, Superintendent McDowell said.

The question of diplomas was discussed and the superintendents spent some time on discussion of the Sportsman's Code, set up for basketball. Further study will be given the latter question. The athletic committee chose trophies for the basketball leagues, rapidly nearing their close. This is the last year for girls' basketball under a state ruling.

Carl D. Bennett, Walnut Township superintendent, was reelected executive secretary of the Pickaway County Schools Activities Committee. He will serve with Mr. McDowell, who is chairman of the committee; C. A. Higley, who heads the basketball tournament; Harold Costlow, who is in charge of the 1940 track and field day, and Leslie Canup, who will assist in the basketball tournament since it is held at his school.

GANNETT READY TO ENTER RACE FOR G. O. P. TOGA

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—Frank E. Gannett, the newspaper publisher, will formally announce himself as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination at a dinner to be held in his home city of Rochester tomorrow night, according to a report circulated today in New York political circles. The dinner is being given in Gannett's honor by a citizens committee of Rochester.

Gannett's announcement as a presidential candidate would probably deprive District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of unanimous support of the New York delegation of 92 to the GOP national convention, it was indicated. Delegates in several of the upstate counties will swing their support to Gannett instead of Dewey, according to political observers.

THE SEVEN COUNTIES

You will soon begin hearing a lot about a wage survey just completed by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

In fact, this survey may be used as important New Deal political ammunition during the coming campaign. It indicates what Roosevelt has done for the wage-earners.

One chart prepared by the bureau shows tremendous increases in the total amount of wages paid workers, in the seven principal industrial counties of the nation, in 1937 as compared to 1933, when the Roosevelt Administration took office.

According to the study, 153 of the country's 3,070 counties accounted for 75 percent of all wages disbursed by manufacturing establishments in 1937.
